CHRISTMAS MIRACLE

Two Pictures With a Holiday Message More Eloquent Than Words

This picture was printed in a newspaper.

BEFOREThis is Ellen. She is 2 years old, one of six children of a jobless, penniless laborer. She looked like this when charity workers visited her windows and strips of cardinard in the doors, to keep out the cold. Ellen had never had a doll, a new dress, a pleasantly full dinner, or any of the other things that a child is supposed to get without asking for them.

had . chance to show that they know what the Christmas spirit is. Ellen is fresh and clean in a new dress now, she has dolls, and she can smile the way a child ought to smile, and you can look at her picture without lying awake nights, afterward. Somebody asked her 5-year-old brother who did all this. "No," he said, "it wasn't Santa Claus. It was just a lot of good people which, of course, means exactly the same thing.

Mayor W. A. Wainright reported that a recent check was made on the square parking and it was found that, for the most part, the cars parked in the immediate vicinity of any store were owned by the businessmen, clerks or employes. Alderman H. A. Williamson reported that during the past ten days he had inquired of many people from out of the city as to what their reaction is regarding the system. heir reaction is regarding the systen recently put in use, and found that about ninety per cent of them were in favor of it.
